“A good friend once said, ‘Working in community is messy,’ and she meant it in the best possible terms,” says Susan. “It takes patience and persistence—while holding a safe space for all to contribute their deepest values and mana’o—to make progress.” Learn skills to facilitate community conversations creating shared vision and goals.

Susan Maddox has served as Executive Team Leader for Friends of the Future since 1996. Previously, she was Executive Director for Hawaii Kids at Work. In addition, she has served as a coach to emerging non-profits and a facilitator for Waipi’o Community Circle. Susan is currently the coordinator for the EnVision Maunakea process.
